One of Saudi Arabia's northernmost regions, Al-Jawf (also spelled Al-Jouf) is a treasure ground of historic artefacts and natural beauty. The province's two major tourist routes lie through its rural capital of Sakakah and the ancient town of Dumat Al-Jandal, where most of Al-Jawf's ruins and ancient relics are concentrated. Endless opportunity for exploration, rich cultural heritage and exotic desert adventures await visitors to Al-Jawf at every turn.

THE REGION

Mjakhro

Much of the province's territory is used for olive and date farming; the Wadi Sarhan area in particular is known for its high concentration of fertile farmlands. Lush greenery starts to disperse the closer one travels towards the An Nafud desert, where an abundance of activities awaits - from camping out in the sands to catching the morning rays of the rising sun to engaging in exotic desert sports such as sand surfing and duning, riding camels and jeep racing.

Among the most sought-after historic sights of Al-Jawf are the Za'abal Castle and Al-Dhel' quarter of Sakakah, as well as the open-air ruins of Dumat Al-Jandal and the mysterious rocks of Al-Rajajil, whose original designation remains unknown to this day.

Those looking to explore the region's fauna may find the Hurrat Al Hurrah Reserve of particular interest - located on migratory birds' natural migration path, the area is a real find for bird-watchers.

DO & SEE

berna namoglu/Shutterstock.com

The province's two major cities of interest are conveniently located only a few kilometers away from each other. Sakakah, the capital, borders on Dumat Al-Jandal (an ancient open-air town of ruins) in the north-west. In Sakakah, do not miss the panoramic views from atop Za'abal Castle, and possibly make time for a trip to Dumat Al-Jandal lake located nearby.

Sakakah City

Compact rural Sakaka is cut through by its main street that's hard to miss. The street is lined with shops and government offices; the authentic Al-Nusl Hotel is also located here. In the town's north, the ancient fort of Qasr Za'abel is perched atop a scenic cliff; east from here is Jabal Burnus rock with carvings dating back to the 6th century BC.

Dumat Al-Jandal

The ancient town of Dumat Al-Jandal breathes history, and is basically one large open-air archaeological site. Its first mentions date back to as early as 10th century BC. Explore the remains of Al Dar'i Quarter, the ruins of Omar Bin Al Khattab Mosque and the Mard Castle in Dumah.

Address: Dumat Al-Jandal, Al-Jawf

Al-Rajajil Site

The mysterious constellation of upright stones (whose origins remain unexplained to-date) at the Al-Rajajil archaeological site are one of the region's most popular attractions. Some theories suggest the structures had been used for worship and/or keeping time, but visitors are still left to ponder their true designation.

Za'abal Castle

The ancient fort of Za'abal isn't just an attraction in itself, but provides bird's eye views of Sakakah city spread out below. From here, travelers will be able to take in the cityscape dominated by low-rise buildings and palm trees, as well as the historic quarter of Al-Dhel' below.

Address: Sakakah, Al-Jawf

Kaf Village

Located in a sulfur-rich area, the village of Kaf draws travelers seeking to make use of the healing properties of sulfur springs abundant in its surroundings. Located around here is the limestone Kaf Palace, the Al-Sa'eedi Castle and a historic stone mosque.

Address: Kaf, Al-Jawf

DINING

szefei/Shutterstock.com

Grains such as wheat or rice and meats (such as lamb) constitute the bulk of Saudi cuisine (pork is normally not served in the country, as its consumption is forbidden by Islam). Milk is often used in local cooking, and dates constitute a dessert staple. Another local specialty is the desert truffle, collected by Bedouins and served as dessert. Exotic treats of Al-Jawf include desert lizard ("dobb"), wild rabbits and birds.

Soufragy

Soufragy (or Sofraje) Restaurant serves Egyptian cuisine with a heavy emphasis on seafood. The grill menu options enjoy special popularity.

BARS & NIGHTLIFE

mama_mia/Shutterstock.com

The cultural environment in Saudi Arabia is highly conservative. Religious law forbids the sale or consumption of alcohol throughout Saudi Arabia, so there are no bars or nightclubs. Instead evening social activities are centred on shopping or dining out in one of the region's many restaurants or cafés whilst indulging in a delicious mocktail (a mix of fresh fruit juices) or strong Arabic coffee.

SHOPPING

Marie Tatiant/Shutterstock.com

Like most Saudi destinations, Al-Jawf Region is home to authentic markets where bargaining is most welcome as well as fixed-price stores and boutiques. When in the area, do not miss Aljouf Plaza located in Sakakah - it is the province's largest shopping center and event venue. Local crafts to shop for include Badu weaving, rugs, carpets, and, of course, olives and products made of olive derivatives.

Arab Street (Baida Market)

Visa Information

Saudi Arabia introduced a new eVisa system in October 2019, dramatically simplifying visa applications for citizens of multiple world countries, including the USA, Canada, China, Japan, Australia, and much of Europe. The new multiple-entry visa will be processed within record time (as quickly as 30 minutes), issued for one year, and will allow visitors to stay in the country for up to 90 days during its validity period. This marks a watershed moment in the country's history, as Saudi Arabia has historically been off limits to non-Muslim tourists, with visas notoriously difficult to secure.

Citizens of countries not covered by the eVisa program will still need to turn to their nearest consulate to obtain a visa.
