Museum Mayer van den Bergh

In the late 1800's the passionate collector Fritz Mayer van den Bergh amassed an amazing art collection. He purchased paintings by Peter Brueghel for a pittance, managed to beat major museums purchasing stunning medieval sculptures. Mayer van den Bergh had an eye for the best quality in almost every genre. After his death his mother finally managed to make her son's dream come true: she built a museum, which only showcased his collection. And today Museum Mayer van den Bergh hasn't changed: it is still a museum of one man... and of his mother. Highly recommended in the Great smaller museums of Europe!

BARS & NIGHTLIFE

Visit Antwerpen

'Antwerp by night' starts with good food, always a highlight. Chatting away the hours with friends in a funky bar or on the river terraces in the summer is the low key 'night out'. For an adrenalin pumping, party night, the city is your dance floor - salsa, hard rock, disco or drum 'n bass, the beat thumps and the dance clubs heave around the city center and along the river

Scheldt.

SHOPPING

Visit Antwerpen

One of the many titles bestowed on Antwerp in the sixteenth century was 'triomfelycke coopstad' (triumphant shopping city). Even today, the city languishes in the accolades of shoppers in the know - shopping in Antwerp means pedestrian streets, historic dwellings and bustling shopping centers.

Do you want to find out how Antwerp became a fashion capital? Hear more about the stories of the designers, the Academy, find out fashion facts and learn more about special places to go? Then download the Fashion in Antwerp app (<http://www.fashioninantwerp.be>). You can choose from five routes and one Best of, or 64 unique locations which tell the story of fashion in Antwerp, from the sixteenth century to the present day.

'Antwerp Baroque 2018. Rubens inspires'

'Antwerp Baroque 2018. Rubens inspires' shows an unexpected side of Antwerp. It is both chic and unrefined, historical and contemporary, world city and pocket sized metropolis. 'Antwerp Baroque 2018. Rubens inspires' combines artistic obstinacy with workaday authenticity.

Put your modesty to one side - that's Baroque too - and surrender yourself to this high-spirited festival!
