Palm trees swaying in the wind, crystal turquoise seas and seemingly endless stretches of talcum-powder-fine-white sand beaches, plus a distinctively laid-back way of life characterise this beautiful island. Boracay offers everything from golf, trekking, sailing and water sports (like windsurfing and scuba diving) to great hotels, gourmet restaurants and festivals. Plus, of course, its fabulous beaches - including White Beach, voted among the finest in the world.

THE ISLAND

Elena Yakusheva/Shutterstock.com

One of the Philippines' most popular tourist destinations, Boracay island lies just off the coast of Panay in the western Visayas region. It is comprised of thirteen areas, known by the Filipino name of Barangays, including Manoc-Manoc and Balabag.

Boracay became an independent state in the 1950's, and was something of a secret until, it is said, a film crew "discovered" the island while filming in the area in the 1970's. The secret was out: tourists began arriving and have continued to do so ever since.

Boracay is probably most famous for its beaches, especially the White Beach - at around four kilometres long, it is the island's main tourist beach known the world over. The sea is especially shallow here, which makes it safe for water sports. The beach is lined with hotels and restaurants - some directly on the waterfront, others separated by a long esplanade.

There are other beaches, too, including the quieter Diniwid Beach and the second largest Bulabog Beach which, because it catches the wind, is popular with windsurfers, kitesurfers and kiteboarders. In fact, the brightly coloured sails are a part of the beach's identity. Boracay is also famous for its nature and eco-trekking, its bargain shopping in markets, diving, parties and the many spas found in its holiday resorts.

DO & SEE

VukToskovic/Shutterstock.com

Relaxing on the beautiful beaches is, perhaps, the top choice of many tourists who visit Boracay, but there are many other attractions and things to do. Boracay, for instance, is a magnet for festival-goers and sport event enthusiasts. Special events include dragon boat races, the Paraw regatta (sailing race), and the open Asian Frisbee beach tournament held every summer - an important event for Boracay's own top ranking team, the Boracay Dragons. Golfing enthusiasts can enjoy the world-class 18-hole par 72 Fairways & Bluewater Resort Golf & Country Club course, while nature lovers and walkers can explore the natural areas of rice terraces, waterfalls and lush plantations around the Tibiao whitewater river (the adventurous can even go whitewater rafting).

White Beach

White Beach is considered to be one of the best beaches in the world. The four km stretch of sugary fine white sand and the crystal clear blue water is the first thing that comes to mind when you picture paradise. This is where most of the island's hotels, restaurants and bars are located.

Windsurfing

Every January, Bulabog beach is abuzz with locals and visitors who come to see or even take part in the Boracay International Funboard Cup Competition.

Windsurfing (and kite-surfing) are popular activities all year round and there are several companies across the island that offer classes and courses for beginners and advanced surfers.

Ariel's Point

Only a 30 minute boat ride away from Boracay Island you will find a cliff jumping spot called Ariel's Point. The views here are stunning, and the trip is an enjoyable experience whether or not you decide to go cliff diving (choose the height you're comfortable with).

Ati-Atihan Festival

In the beginning of every year, there's the two-week long Ati-atihan festival, when people throughout the Philippines wear elaborate fancy dress costumes and make-up, and party with music, dance and carnivals.

The religious festival is held in a nearby municipality and is in honour of the Santo Niño de Cebu (the Holy Infant Jesus), a patron saint of the Cebu region.

The Ati-Atihan takes place every third Sunday of January.

Puka Shell Beach

Less crowded than the White Beach, Puka is a stretch of crispy white sand that is a must-visit for all travelers to the island. It is usually included in most beach-hopping itineraries. The beach is little commercialized, but some beach bars offer complimentary sun beds with purchase of a drink.

Banana Boats

This is a lot of fun and a very popular water activity among tourists. The boats come in different sizes and you can fit 3 to 10 people on one banana boat per ride. You find these boats on almost all of the beaches across the island, where they can be hired.

Photo: skeeze

Mountain Biking & Hiking

What better way to discover the island than to put on your hiking shoes and get out there? You are sure to find remote places and breathtaking scenery. There are paths criss-crossing the whole island and if you prefer renting a mountain bike, you can do so pretty much anywhere along White Beach.

Willy's Rock

Located at Station 1, Willy's Rock is somewhat of an iconic location on the island of Boracay.

Best time to visit is during low tide. Rumor has it, this beach is also home to some of the island's best sunsets, so stay until sundown and watch the magnificent sun disappear behind the horizon.

Our Lady of the Most Holy Rosary

Our Lady of the Most Holy Rosary is a small Catholic Church in the Station 1 area of Boracay Island. Mass in English is held almost daily, so do not hesitate to visit for a spiritual moment or join the Sunday mass. Tourists and visitors are welcome to attend.

Mount Luho

For a beautiful, panoramic view of the island take the 15 minute hike uphill to Mount Luho, the highest point of Boracay (hire an ATV

(all-terrain vehicle) or tricycle if you mind walking). Go on a clear day for best views. There is a small entrance fee and a mini-zoo as you approach the top.

Address: Mount Luho, Boracay

Diniwid Beach

This secluded, cosy beach with a private feel to it is a great alternative to the often busy White Beach. Several scenic restaurants are perched on the cliffs north of this beach, located only a 20 minute walk (or an even shorter tricycle ride) north from Station 1.

Address: Balabag, Aklan Province, Boracay

Boat Tours

With a pre-arranged boat tour you can discover the Island from a new perspective, and even see some of its hidden places. Have a great time with friends and family, enjoy the included lunch and watch the sunset directly off the boat.

DINING

italay/Shutterstock.com

Boracay has a huge choice of restaurants to suit all tastes and pockets - from local eateries to lavish gourmet-style venues. Dishes like char-grilled chicken, meat cooked to perfection over coals accompanied by salads and local vegetables, or fish caught fresh from the sea, marinated and grilled, can be found on most tables. Try grilled prawns with bacon and avocado, fresh Oriental-style spring rolls or delicacies like seared tuna with soy sauce. The hotels and resorts tend to have a selection of restaurants too, serving both Filipino and International cuisine.

I Luv Backyard BBQ Grill

The busy I Luv Backyard BBQ Grill is located at D'Mall, the island's busiest shopping village. Their chicken and pork dishes include tasty treats such as litson kawali, crispy pata, sisig and of course roasted and fried chicken; the seafood menu is just as extensive. Come outside "rush hours".

BARS & NIGHTLIFE

Cor Meenderinck/Shutterstock.com

Boracay is the party capital of the Philippines. Taking a stroll along the waterfront at night will almost certainly mean stumbling upon lively beach bars and dance clubs. Nightlife establishments are usually rather informal (the dance floor/seating is often directly on sand), and attract locals and visitors alike. Stations 1 and 2 are known as the lively party areas, while Station 3 is better fit for those looking to spend a relaxed evening listening to the sound of the waves.

Summer Place

Summer Place is a fun open bar facing the beach. Easily the hottest nightlife venue in the Station 2 area (if not the entire island), Summer

Place has a rather compact dance floor, which often extends directly onto the beach. Arrive early to avoid the entrance fee.

Address: Station 2, Boracay

Opening hours: Daily 7 am-2 am

Phone: +63 362883144

Club Paraw

The dream of sipping cocktails on the beach comes true at Club Paraw, where evenings are spent listening to acoustic reggae and folk songs, and as the night progresses, party vibes are generated in abundance by livelier music like house, hip hop and r'n'b.

SHOPPING

BlueOrange Studio/Shutterstock.com

Shopping in Boracay revolves around its fabulous markets and speciality shops. As befits an island community, there are multiple corner shops selling items of beachwear, water sports attire, swimming costumes and the like. The island's largest market is Talipapa - a must-visit for local crafts and fresh seafood. Local craftsmen produce intricate wood carvings, leather items, musical instruments, and jewellery.

D'Mall

The D'Mall isn't exactly a shopping center, but rather an entire one-storey village, whose streets are lined with all manner of shops and restaurants. Known for its generally reasonable prices and an abundance of decent eateries, the D'Mall is an area frequented by locals and tourists alike.

E Mall

D'Mall's sibling, E Mall is a collection of small shops one will find following the road on the right-hand side of the Golden Phoenix Hotel in Station 3. Souvenirs are said to be cheaper here than at D'Mall, but the general assortment of goods is rather similar.

Caticlan Airport

Boracay can be reached best from Cebu or Manila to Caticlan by air. Flights arrive into the small Caticlan Airport (Godofredo P. Ramos Airport) on Panay Island regularly from other islands or the mainland. Services are operated by Airphil Express (code-shared with Philippine Airlines), Cebu Pacific Air, and South East Asian Airlines.

Caticlan is minutes away from the jetty port from where banca boats leave for Cagban Beach (the jetty port for arrivals and departures on Boracay) throughout the day. The ferry takes approx. 10-20 minutes.

There are different companies arranging transfers from here to Boracay. Southwest Tours (southwesttoursboracay.com / +63 36 2685100) is one of them.

Public Transport

Motor-tricycles, mountain bikes or quad bikes can be hired from many outlets around the island. Pedicabs circulate around the island as well, fares are usually clearly displayed on the vehicle and are twice as high at night and increase if the destination lies beyond Stations 1, 2 or 3.

Boracay's coastline can be seen from the decks of sailing boats or motorized bancas.

Post

Post offices dot the island and are clearly identified by signage. They are normally open from 9 am to 5 pm, on weekdays only. One of the offices is located at the northern end of the Main Road. You can also send your mail from the Boracay Tourist Centre, that is said to be quicker than the post offices, but be aware that it is about 50% more expensive.

Pharmacy

There are pharmacies in most of the island's communities, which are open from 10 am to 5 pm. Farmacia Gomez (at Tyrol Shopping Center/+63 36 288 5005) and Harlem Drugstore (at Tambisaan Jetty Port Road/+63 36 288 3244) are two of the largest pharmacies on the island. For emergencies head for the Boracay Medical Centre which is open 24 hours.
